Southern Formosa Struck By Disaster; 612 Homes Destroyed

TOKYO, Dec. 17.—(By Official Japanese Wireless)—The Domei (Japanese) news agency reported today that 190 persons were killed, 77 seriously injured and 87 slightly hurt by an earthquake which shook Taihoku in southern Formosa.

The dispatch said 612 houses were completely destroyed and 918 partly wrecked.

Epicenter of the quake was said to be in Tainan province, near Kagi.

The quake was described as the worst to hit Taihoku since 1930. Domei said the announcement of casualties was made by the overseas affairs ministry in Tokyo.

It added that Hiroya Ino, colonial affairs minister, went to the imperial palace to inform Emperor Hirohito about the quake.

Railway communications between Tainan and Kagi and telephone communications at Kagi were disrupted.

The 1930 quake killed or injured 354 persons and damaged more than 2,000 homes.

SENATE FAVORS CALLING YOUTHS OF 19 FOR DUTY

House Would Place Only Men Between 21-44 Into Army

F. D. FOR BROADER PLAN

Final Action Is Expected In Short Time; Numerous Solons Speak

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—With the Senate and House Military Affairs Committees in disagreement, the battle over the minimum age for draftees shifted to the floor today, with final House action, at least, expected by nightfall.

Crux of the controversy is whether 2,400,000 men, aged 19 and 20, shall be called into military service. As approved by the House committee, the draft extension bill calls for the registration of all 40,000,000 males between 18 and 64 inclusive, but provides active service only for those between 21 and 44 inclusive.

The Senate committee, at the request of President Roosevelt and War Department officials, approved a broader measure which would hold all those between 19 and 44 liable for active duty.

As the two houses convened, administration strategy in the matter had not been clearly worked out, but leaders were confident that the Senate bill would finally be accepted, although not without a probable fight in the House.

The lower chamber was called into session to consider its own bill, with Rep. May (D) Ky., chairman of the House Military Committee, declaring that he would stand by his group and not seek to widen the service ages.

Amendments Ready
Rep. Andrews (R) N. Y., ranking committee Republican, indicated however, that he will insist on the War Department version, while Rep. Fadden (D) Pa., announced he will offer an amendment to make the service age minimum to 20 instead of 19, as a compromise.

"They talk about getting 4,500,000 men like we did in the last war," Andrews declared hotly. (Continued on Page Four)

TOTAL OF 11,303 JOINS U. S. NAVY SINCE JAP WAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—A total of 11,303 men enlisted at regular Navy Recruiting Stations during the first eight days following the Japanese attack on Hawaii, the Navy reported today.

The increase indicates "the response of the nation's manpower to the threat against the nation," a Navy statement pointed out. From Monday, December 8 through Monday, December 15, the rate of first enlistments rose from 361 per day to 2,309 daily, the report showed.

The figures do not include re-enlistments or broken service enlistments or a large number of men who have been signed up for service by commanders of the various naval districts, it was explained.

With recruiting stations operating on a 24-hour, 7-day basis, the following tabulation of enlistments was recorded:

December 8, 361; December 9, 903; December 10, 1,194; December 11, 1,648; December 12, 1,964; December 13, and 14, 2,303; and December 15, 2,930. Total 11,303.

AUSTRIAN BARON ROBERTS, FOUR JAILED FOR USE OF ARMY OUTFIT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Charged with illegally wearing the olive drab overcoat of a United States Army sergeant, Ernest Frolich De Meyer, 27, self-styled Austrian baron, was held today by federal agents.

He was placed under $2,000 bond by a U. S. commissioner, who ordered him remanded to the county jail in lieu of the bail.

Driving a huge custom-built automobile, De Meyer was stopped for speeding by police and turned over to detectives who called the FBI.

The officers told federal agents De Meyer was wearing the coat when arrested.

Subsequently it was reported that the G-Men, in a search of De Meyer's apartment, had found parts of a U. S. Marine uniform, a short wave radio set and a mass of correspondence which allegedly disclosed sailing times, places and destinations of transports and warships.

Two Successful Attacks Scored By Daring Craft

Tokyo Warned That 20 Sub-Surface Boats Menacing Shipping; 26 Nipponese Planes Destroyed By Bombers At Vigan

BRITAIN'S SINGAPORE IN DANGER

Foothold On North Borneo And Move Into Sarawak Revealed; Russians Keeping Germans Retreating In Confusion

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
Far ranging submarines of the U. S. Asiatic fleet have scored new successes against Japanese vessels and today, the cry of alarm went up in Tokyo that the American sub-surface craft are carrying the war into the territorial waters of the Japanese empire.

Further successes in the Far East went to the credit of Army bombing planes who blasted 26 Japanese planes based at the invasion bridgehead established by Vigan.

American submarines broke water on three occasions to strike at vessels flying the Nipponese flag. Two of the attacks were successful, the flashing torpedoes crashing their warheads into the sides of the Japanese craft.

Tokyo promptly showed the fear engendered by the audacity of the American submarines. Lieut. Commander Kengo Tominaga, an attaché of the Imperial headquarters naval section, said 20 American submarines are now roving the home waters of Japan.

Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander of the U. S. Asiatic fleet, revealed the new naval victories at his Manila headquarters. He would not disclose whether the marine victims were units of the Japanese navy or troop-laden transports, but the two-out-of-three victory gave new evidence of the vigor with which American warcraft are searching the Pacific from the Aleutian Islands to south of the Tropic of Capricorn.

After Full Victory

Hart made one thing clear. The United States is out for full and complete victory. Nothing that Japan has done, nothing she will do, can alter the set plans mapped long before war broke out to smash Japan if she went to war. Specifically, the United States will not be lured into a premature attack on the island empire—not by the footpad tactics of the attack on Pearl Harbor, nor the latest ammunition-wasting shell-fire directed with so little damage by Japanese warships against Maui and Johnston Islands.

"My own forces," said Hart, "have been carrying out the same plan settled on considerably beforehand, except for minor adjustments.

"Incidental damages do not change the original plan. We do not intend to attack Japan."

True to form, Japan launched her latest hit-and-run attack on Maui and Johnston, U. S. naval outposts respectively southeast and southwest of Hawaii, just at dusk. Japanese surface craft slammed shells into Johnston Island and a submarine opened up on Maui, pin-pricking and annoying sorties of but little military significance, and of less damage.

Ships Flee Into Night

Then, as once before, the Japanese vessels fled into the night before vengeance-bent units of the U. S. fleet could pick up their trail. But the search was on again today, and the prayer for an opportunity to pay score for score was on the lips of every man on every ship of the line in the Pacific.

Hawaii experienced another day of quiet but the island of Luzon in the Philippines again saw action, hot and heavy. Japanese efforts to mushroom their bridgeheads on the north and south coasts were blasted to futility by closely coordinated air and ground forces which smashed again and again at the uncomfortably situated invaders.

Fortunes of war for formal and undeclared allies of the United States varied and seasawed in other theatres of the vast conflict. Singapore, Britain's Gibraltar of the Pacific, is in peril. Japanese troops have fought their way down the jungle-grown Malayan peninsula to a point ten miles north of Penang and are now engaged in a fierce struggle with British imperial forces.

London newspapers gave token of the concern felt over Singapore and also over Hong Kong, the heavily-garrisoned British crown colony just off the South China coast which is being subjected to siege-gun shelling and attacks by

ALBANIANS IN UPRISING

Yugoslavia, Norway, France, Belgium Scenes Of New Difficulties

By International News Service
A new wave of defiance to Nazi masters and effective sabotaging of their war-industrial machine swept over Europe today as shackled millions took new courage from America's entry into the war.

Defiance brought death to many in undaunted Yugoslavia. A British radio report heard by CBS said 64 persons, including seven women, were executed in that fighting country, and 250 others

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—The dread "spotted typhus is assuming more threatening proportions in eastern Europe," BBC reported today in a broadcast picked up by NBC's short wave listening post.

"These indications come from the German-controlled press itself," BBC said. "The 'Casseler Zeitung' publishes an order forbidding all travel between the Baltic states and the Reich."

The British radio added that "a message from Sweden says the whole of Latvia, Lithuania, White Russia and the Ukraine have been declared quarantine areas."

were arrested by the Nazi occupational forces. Later, CBS heard another British radio report that 60 more persons, branded as Communists, had been shot in a village in western Serbia and 150 more arrested.

Little Albania experienced a flareup of guerrilla activity. A BBC announcement heard by NBC said:

"Yugoslavia's successful fight against Germany and Italy has its effect in Albania. Here, guerrilla warfare is growing daily in extent. Albanian guerrillas have inflicted heavy losses on Italian military convoys."

BBC also reported numerous arrests in Trondheim, Norway, after a fire destroyed large stores of foodstuffs on the city's docks.

Industries Hit
French and Belgian workers were reported in another British broadcast, picked up by NBC to have dealt severe blows to Germany's industrial system. BBC announced:

"The go-slow campaign in French and Belgian industry has scored a major success. Because of reduced coal output, many important factories working for Germany are to be closed down for two weeks, beginning December 21. In Belgium, coal shortages have forced the closure of 59 textile factories. French and Belgian workers have struck a heavy blow at Hitler's war machine."

NBC reports the Rome radio says it hears from Budapest that a series of new anti-Semitic laws have been put into effect in Hungary. Jews hereafter are to be excluded from the Hungarian motion picture industry, according to Rome. NBC said the Italian wireless also declared five movie directors already have been arrested while several writers and technicians have been placed in concentration camps. Jews also have been forbidden to sell wines or liquors. NBC reports the Rome radio said.

ALIEN ARRESTS BEING SPEEDED ON WEST COAST

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17—Enemy alien arrests up until today showed 350 Japanese, 90 Germans and 15 Italians in custody in the Los Angeles area, according to the FBI.

Two hundred Japanese are held in the county jail, while the remainder of the prisoners are at Terminal Island in Los Angeles harbor.

As federal agents continued their work of rounding up aliens, the district courts were warned by United States Attorney General Francis Biddle not to prosecute under the Espionage Act, involving the law against subversive activities passed by Congress in 1940, without express authority of the attorney general.

Biddle made the announcement in directing that the bonds of seven Los Angeles prisoners, held on suspicion of sedition, be reduced from $25,000 to $5,000 each and that federal grand jury action be postponed indefinitely.

ASHVILLE

The village council in session for its last meeting of the year, transacted no business except the paying of bills amounting to $691.84. A part of this amount was for half-year salaries of the village officials. The next meeting of the village officials will be on the first Monday evening of the new year, January 5.

The Ashville-Harrison joint board of education in session Monday evening paid bills and granted the Parent-Teacher Association the privilege of serving hot lunches if and when they might decide to do so.

Santa is coming sure and no foolin'. He told Mayor Fred Hines in a letter received Tuesday that he'd be here for certain on Wednesday evening, December 24, at 7 o'clock and would have headquarters down on the corner at Main and Long streets, where all the good kiddies would receive a treat. So be here and meet the Old Gent. He'll be glad to see you.

Wayne Jinks has sold to Mrs. Beatrice Schiff his dwelling property, the former Peter Glick home, located on North East Street. Modern improvements are to be made. It is now occupied by the Robert Welch family.

Lucius and Mrs. Hughes are now residents of Ashville having moved here from Columbus to a West Main Street home. They had for Sunday evening dinner guests Clarence and Mrs. Nopher, Mrs. L. W. Eitel, son Charles and Robert Pierce of Columbus; Hazel and Edward Wells, Ashville.

Mrs. Laura Bowers, her son William, daughter Kathryn and her sister Mrs. Stella Martin were last Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Bowers' and Martin's brother, Rev. Elmer Swoyer at Mansfield. They attended services at the Reverend's church, the attendance 918 and collection more than sixty dollars. Rev. Swoyer was a chaplain in the first world war and it is a sure guess that he'll be willing to serve again if needed.

We'll have us Friday evening the Salt Creek Township basketballers and they may take home with them the long end of the score but if they do, they'll have it to win in real warm style competition.

Ashville business places Monday, were all beflagged in honor of Bill of Rights Day established some 150 years ago. And which now soon will be getting some needed repairs made by Uncle Samuel.

As many as we can obtain of, and local and community church Christmas exercises will be given here tomorrow.

KNISLEY WOULD ALTER DIVISION OF TAX FUNDS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 17—Clarence K. Knisley, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1942, entered the controversy over the division of state tax receipts today.

He proposed that $17,500,000 be guaranteed the subdivisions each year, as compared with the $12,000,000 provided each year in the present biennium.

The former state treasurer's plan calls for setting aside $32,500,000 each year from the sales tax for the state's general revenue fund. Any amount collected over $50,000,000 a year would be placed in a reserve fund until the reserve reaches $10,000,000, Knisley proposed.

After the reserve fund reached the desired mark, the excess collected from the sales tax, under Knisley's plan, would be divided, 65 percent for the state's general revenue fund and 35 percent for local subdivisions.

The general round-up of enemy aliens continued with 42 Germans and 17 Japanese now in custody.

Manuel Perez Benitoa, under secretary of defense, was appointed to administer enemy alien property, which may be seized.

Cabinet committees speeded defense plans pending congressional approval of a national state of emergency.

A presidential decree made measures for freezing credits of enemy aliens applicable to funds in postal savings banks.

THREE INJURED IN TRAIN CRASH IN NEW MEXICO

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Dec. 17—Three men were injured early today when a broken rail threw six rear cars of the "Californian," Rock Island railroad passenger train, from the tracks 35 miles east of Tucumcari. Eleven other persons were taken to the Tucumcari Hospital, but did not require hospitalization, railroad officials said.

M. S. Saul, chief clerk for the railroad in Tucumcari, reported that two of the six cars overturned. The three injured passengers, whose names were not immediately available, are not in serious condition, he said.

The locomotive and six cars of the train had passed over the rail before it snapped, derailing the six following cars, Saul said. The train was en route from Chicago to Los Angeles.

Saul said the right-of-way would be cleared "in four or five hours."

SPANISH LINER TAKEN OVER BY U. S. TREASURY

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 — The Spanish liner, Isla De Tenerife, was held by United States government agents today on orders of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. The freighter boarded while at anchor off Staten Island by armed coast guardsmen and treasury agents, was seized for alleged violation of the Trading With the Enemy Act. It was the first time since this country has entered the war that the statute has been invoked.

Her sailing was scheduled for a week ago but government agents ordered her departure delayed after radio equipment, oil and other goods, for which no export license had been obtained, were alleged to have been discovered in her hold.

Meanwhile, coast guardsmen completed official seizure of the giant French liner Normandie by hauling down the French tri-color from her sternmast. No American flag was raised over the $69,000,000 liner, however.

PHONE SERVICE RATIONING MAY BE NECESSARY

Manager Of Circleville Utility Discloses Material Needs

INSTALLATION TO HALT

Business Offices To Be Removed Friday Into New Building

C. Dee Early, manager of the Citizens Telephone Company, warned citizens Wednesday that shortage of instruments and materials may make necessary the rationing of local telephone service in the future.

A shortage of materials already has curtailed the local company's program of extension into the county and in the future it may be necessary to refuse to install telephones to all except those who have government priority ratings.

Mr. Early suggested that those leaving the city for the winter leave their telephones installed, since they could not be assured of having their telephones re-installed on their return.

The shortage in telephone instruments is caused largely by curtailment in their manufacture for domestic use, factories previously making telephone equipment now working on government contracts.

The local telephone company will move its business offices to its new building on Pinckney Street Friday and thereafter customers will use the Pinckney Street entrance.

The new building is not yet completed, however, and a portion of the equipment will remain in the old building for some time yet. It may be two or three months before the old building on Court Street is dismantled.

Trapping In Ohio

The average person probably does not realize how important trapping is in Ohio. Ohio ranks third among the states of the union in the production of fur. Louisiana ranks first and Wisconsin second in the value of the fur produced. Ohio produces three times as much fur as Alaska. That statement may sound strange, however, figures prove that such is the case. During the season of 1940-41 the Ohio Division of Conservation reports that 1,172,903 pelts were taken in the state, having a value of $1,714,263. This record was better than the preceding year when 957,617 pelts worth $878,000 were taken. These figures do not include a probable 10 percent that were sold directly by trappers to firms outside the state.

Last winter's figures: Red fox 6,887 pelts, $17,217; Gray fox, 12,311 pelts, $21,544; Mink, 15,434, $108,038; Muskrat, 832,806 pelts, $1,249,209; Opossum, 162,497 pelts, $48,740; Raccoon, 49,460 pelts, $173,110; Skunk, 82,734 pelts, $91,007; Weasel, 10,774, pelts, $5,388.

Ralph Leach Elgin Merriman, C. E. Webb, Mr. Coon and seven boys from Walnut Township High School walked over the Safety zone on the Coon Bros. farm in Walnut Township Tuesday in order to estimate the number of pheasants remaining on the 75 acre refuge after the hunting season. It was really amazing to find pheasants and rabbits plentiful as they are on that area. It was rather difficult to count the birds accurately, but it was estimated that approximately 100 birds remain on the area. With a splendid food and excellent cover patch on the refuge these birds will be well supplied for the winter. Such a situation as this will mean that that part of Walnut Township will have an abundant brood stock of pheasants for next year. Rabbits were plentiful also.

The boys of the various H. S. Conservation Clubs have been putting up raccoon, dens, squirrel, dens and wood duck nests boxes during the past two weeks. These dens and nests boxes will help to supply the lack of hollow trees which are becoming scarce in our woodlots.

SPEEDER ARRESTED

Two Successful Attacks Scored

Japanese aerial raiders. The London Daily Mail editorialized that the Malaya situation could not be viewed "with anything but anxiety." And a dispatch from Sydney to the same paper quoted Prime Minister John F. Curtin as warning the Australian parliament: "The danger of an invasion of Australia has increased."

Oil Tanks Wrecked

Two other Far Eastern moves were taken by foot-hungry Japan. Landing parties of Nipponese succeeded in gaining a foothold on British North Borneo, rich in rubber and other natural resources. The landing, however, was accompanied by a British withdrawal that, under prearranged plan, saw the destruction of oil reserve tanks in the Mirlubong area to prevent their seizure and use by the invaders.

There is a graver significance to the North Borneo landings. Establishment of improvised air bases in Sarawak would bring the Japanese that much closer to aerial bombardment range of Singapore, Sumatra and Java, and the Philippines.

Japan's other thrust was the occupation of Macao, the Portuguese colony near Hong Kong. In the past, Portugal has occasionally been pictured as quiescent to wishes of the axis powers and this latest aggression on a neutral country should serve to show—depending on whether Portugal protests and backs it up—whether Lisbon is now in close liaison with Berlin, Rome and Tokyo.

On the European and African battlefronts the German-Italian war machine was badly disorganized, thrown into confusion, with hard pressed axis forces suffering sledge-hammer blows.

Kalinin Captured

Russia jubilantly proclaimed the setbacks inflicted on the half-frozen Nazi armies were approaching proportions of a debacle. Even the German high command conceded the fierceness of the Russian counter-offensive which, the Russians say, has resulted in recapture of Kalinin, the wiping out of six German divisions (about 90,000 troops), and the headlong retreat of the entire Ninth German army.

In Libya the British were pressing forward on all sectors, seeking infliction of a mortal wound to the German-Italian troops that have been trapped and driven back in the prolonged British offensive. Fast-wheeling British desert fighters made a successful race to outflank the axis troops before Gazala and a drive is now on for Derna where the British hope to force a favorable and early decision.

THREE TRAINMEN CRASH VICTIMS; TROOPS UNHURT

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 17—Three trainmen were killed today and two others injured when two passenger trains crashed head-on three miles north of Jefferson City. First reports said no passengers were hurt.

Cause of the wreck was not determined immediately. The crash occurred about 5 a. m. on the Missouri-Kansas-Texas line.

The dead were identified as F. M. Truitt, engineer, Sedalia, Mo.; Dick Snell, fireman, New Franklin, Mo.; and P. H. Handley, engineer, Sedalia.

The injured trainmen, according to police, were Robert Gowan and his son, John Gowan, both of Sedalia.

Passengers aboard one of the trains included a few soldiers, none of whom was hurt, according to state police. The soldiers assisted in administering first aid to the injured.

One of the locomotives overturned and several cars were derailed.

TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS ON RURAL ROADS REPORTED

Mrs. R. E. Armstrong, West Franklin Street, was cut and bruised Wednesday morning in an auto accident on Route 22 seven miles west of Circleville.

The accident happened, according to sheriff's officers, when Mrs. Armstrong was on her way to work in Williamsport. Cars of Mrs. Armstrong and Ed Helwagen, North Court Street, collided when the Helwagen car pulled from a side road onto Route 22 in front of Mrs. Armstrong. Her car overturned.

Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer reported an auto accident on a county road two miles east of the Walnut Township school Wednesday at 8:20 a. m. when cars of Miss Marjorie Houck, teacher at the Amanda school, and Robert Pearl Seitz, Ashville Route 2, collided. Miss Houck was on her way to school when the Seitz car crossed the road in front of her. Deputy Custer said. The front end and left side of Miss Houck's car and the rear end of Seitz' car were damaged.

Red Cross Call to Service!

THE dramatic poster by James Montgomery Flagg is the first war poster of the new World War. It is an appeal for a $50,000,000 American war relief fund to feed, shelter, clothe and give medical aid to American men, women and children bombed by the enemy.

It is an appeal for funds to provide comforts for our American Army and Navy and for welfare work for our troops at home and abroad, and their families on the home front. President Roosevelt asks you to give. Your dollars will serve humanit. Give through your local Red Cross Chapter.

Military Commission In Charge of Hawaii Area

HONOLULU, Dec. 17—Hawaii's wartime government tightened its control of the embattled islands today, with appointment of a full military commission to try all persons who may be arrested.

The commission of eight army officers, appointed by Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, military governor of Hawaii, replaced the previous commission, set up with the proclamation of martial law December 7, which included three civilians.

Hawaii's entire law enforcement machinery is now under military control.

(Editor's Note: This dispatch, held up by the rigid censorship and further delayed in transmission makes no mention of last evening's new Jap bombardment of Maui and Johnston Islands. A radio broadcast from Honolulu last night likewise failed to mention them.)

Army officials believe the few "minor disturbances," which occur nightly are the work of Fifth Columnists.

(Editor's Note: This dispatch, cleared through censorship, did not elaborate on nature of the "minor disturbances.")

Purpose of the underground movement is believed to be maintenance of a prolonged tenseness among the populace and an attempt to disturb the morale.

Meanwhile, a bomb-scarred Honolulu rushed construction of air raid shelters and repaired the wreckage from the savage Japanese raid, the Kauai radio revealed the dramatic story of how primitive natives on the distant island of Niihau killed a Jap aviator who was forced down there and terrorized them for almost a week.

The Jap pilot, one of the original Oahu raiding party, was forced down on Niihau, 125 miles west of here, December 7. Mounting his plane's machine-gun in front of the hut which he commandeered, he kept the island's 200 aborigines in terror.

Two Japanese, named Shintani and Harada, sided with the aviator and helped him.

The natives did not know Japan was at war with the United States, and had no idea what the aviator's sudden appearance meant.

Despite his vigilance, a Hawaiian named Hauila broke away, survived a hail of bullets, leaped on a horse and rode 18 miles to the shore, then made the 10-hour trip to the adjacent island of Kauai in a whaleboat to seek aid.

When he told his story to authorities, an infantry detachment under Lieut. Jack Mizuha immediately embarked for Niihau.

Meanwhile, a huge Hawaiian, Kanahale, tricked the tired Japanese aviator into believing that he would help him search for Hauila and failed to come back.

Catching the aviator off-guard, Kanahale struck him with a rock. The Japanese whipped out his pistol and shot the Hawaiian three times, badly wounding him. Then Kanahale's wife joined the fight

SENATE FAVORS CALLING YOUTHS OF 19 FOR DUTY

"Things are very different now than they were in the last war. We don't know what we'll need, and we better be ready for anything," Faddis said his amendment would also call for at least one year's training before a man could be sent overseas.

World War Recalled

"In the World War, I saw American soldiers sent to the front lines to be killed when they had only been in the Army two months—and by Heaven I want to prevent that this time," the World War veteran said.

Sen. Reynolds (D) N. C., chairman of the Senate Military Affairs committee, also urged the wider service ages.

"I expect the Army to expand as rapidly as is safely and humanly and economically possible—that is preserving the health of the men, and providing necessary additional housing and clothing," he said.

FIVE MEN ADDED TO AID POSTAL SERVICE IN CITY

Postmaster Hulse Hays has added five men to his list of carriers to handle Christmas mail in Circleville.

Men who will assist with the Christmas rush are Kenneth May, East Mound Street; Robert G. Brown, East High Street; Ralph A. Schumm Jr., Watt Street; Eugene Neff, South Scioto Street, and Kenneth Cox, East Mound Street.

The local postoffice will be open all day Saturday, from 7:30 a. m. until 6 p. m. The postmaster urged customers to mail their packages early in the day to avoid congestion at the postoffice and assure quick service.

Outgoing packages should be sent immediately, Mr. Hays said, since there is no assurance that packages mailed the day before Christmas can be delivered.

Christmas cards for men in the service should be sealed and addressed should be placed in the upper left hand corner.

Persons have been requested to purchase 1½ cent stamps in lots of ten or multiples of ten.

ROBERTS, FOUR OTHERS PROBE HARBOR ATTACK

the actual scene of their inquiry. They met as latest war communiques revealed the Japanese had returned to the Hawaiian area with hit-and-run tactics which found U. S. fighting forces extremely on the alert.

Great interest was centered on the Pearl Harbor inquiry ordered by the President because of the possibility that high ranking Army and Navy officers might be found guilty of dereliction of duty.

The fate of the Hawaiian command will be in the hands of the special board of inquiry, headed by Justice Roberts, and including Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, retired; Admiral William H. Standley, retired; and Brig. Gen. Joseph P. McNarney, of the Army Air Corps.

President Roosevelt selected Justice Roberts to preside over the inquiry because of his peculiar knowledge of Pearl Harbor defenses.

BAD FIRST PERIOD LOSES 58-47 TILT FOR TIGER CAGERS

Upper Arlington Takes Advantage Of Long Shots To Run Up 19-5 Edge In Opener; Hillsboro Comes Here Friday

Circleville High Tigers spotted Upper Arlington a 19-5 lead in the first period Tuesday evening on the Columbus suburb's fine court and never were able to catch up with the fast-moving Golden Bears. The final score was 58-47, the total being the biggest one in which a Circleville team has participated in a good many years.

The Red and Black spent the entire first quarter pegging away at the basket from mid-court, Arlington was controlling the rebounds and moving down the court for game-winning baskets. After the Red and Black started to pass the ball around, breaking cagers into scoring

TRIO OF GAMES ON C. A. C. CARD

Athletic Club To Tangle With Magnetic Springs Thursday

A big basketball card featuring three games will be offered for cage fans Thursday evening when the Circleville Athletic Club presents its program. The big game will be between the Athletic Club team and Magnetic Springs, a speedy team paced by Herb Hutchinson, former Ostrander ace.

While the C. A. C. - Magnetic Springs game will be tops for entertainment, two other crowd pleasers have been scheduled. The Blue Ribbon Dairy will try to keep its slate clean while competing with Wayne Hitt's Amanda team, a crew made up of Amanda high school stars of the last couple of years. In an earlier preliminary the Emory Club will meet a high school senior class team.

The C. A. C. varsity may be somewhat crippled for its contest. Jerry Miller, forward, having a broken hand and Red Roush, star guard, having a bruised knee.

YANKS OBTAIN HASSETT, AND MAY ARRANGE TRADE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 — Buddy Hassett was a temporary member of the New York Yankees today but probably will be traded to another club before the 1942 season opens. It has long been Hassett's ambition to play first base for the world champion Yankees and it was just possible that he may linger on the club's roster and make Johnny Stump hustle this spring for his position.

Hassett, was acquired by the Yankees in a deal with the Boston Braves which gave Tommy Holmes, Newark star outfielder to Casey Stengel's club. Hassett twisted his knee in a pre-season exhibition game last season and got off to a slow start but he finished the year with a batting average of .206 in 118 games. Business Manager Ed Barrow, said however, that present plans of the Yankees did not include retaining Hassett.

PACIFIC COAST SQUAD PREPARES TO GO EAST

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17 — Pacific Coast members of the West team will start out tomorrow night for their January 3 game against Eastern football all-stars at New Orleans, picking up Midwestern and Southwestern members of the squad on their way. The Islam Temple of the Shrine, which has promoted the annual event in San Francisco until its forced evacuation this year, will do all right by its fund to finance the local hospital for crippled children.

The Islam Shrine is to split proceeds with the New Orleans Temple, which operates a similar hospital at Shreveport, La. But the Islam Shrine also is due to receive an additional sum, because many persons who bought tickets for the event when it was scheduled for San Francisco have declined reimbursement.

CHICAGO—The Western conference basketball race gets underway January 3 with Chicago meeting Purdue, Illinois at Wisconsin, Indiana at Northwestern, Iowa at Michigan and Minnesota at Ohio State.

DAYTON OUTFIT BEARS HARD AT PROVES TO BE WORK FOR TILT ONE OF FINEST WITH NEW YORK

By International News Service
Dayton's soaring Flyers joined Bowling Green, Toledo and Wooster at the head of the Ohio collegiate basketball class last night by ringing up their third consecutive victory, a 37-27 triumph over Wittenberg which was more decisive than even the score indicates. It was Dayton's third victory in as many starts without a setback.

The Flyers counted 12 points before Wittenberg got a single tally, held them basketless until the last minute of the first half, enjoyed a 22 to 5 lead at the intermission and then relaxed in the second half. Bill Knisley, slight blond guard of the Flyers, was the game's outstanding performer with 18 points, scored on eight baskets and two free throws.

Elsewhere on the Ohio collegiate front last night, Heidelberg nicked Kenyon 38 to 32 for the latter's first setback, and Kent State crushed Ashland, 65 to 32 in Ohio Conference games. Feature of the Heidelberg victory was the play of Forward Jack Spreadbury who tallied 12 points. Ashland's loss to Kent was its third in a row.

Topping tonight's program will be Xavier's game with a touring Oregon University team. While Xavier steps out into fast company, fans at other points throughout the state will be regaled with a program topped by the Denison-Capitol Ohio Conference clash at Columbus. Miami entertains Hanover, Wichita plays at Dayton, Kent entertains Hiram. Akron is host to Wash-Jeff, and Toledo is at home to Albion. Two Ohio teams are busy on the road, Rio Grande at High Point N. C. and Baldwin-Wallace at Detroit Tech.

BULLIES TO CONCLUDE GAMES ON WEST COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17 — The Pacific Coast tour of the Columbus, O., Bullies, champions of the American League Professional Football loop, appeared ended today after the San Francisco Bay Packers cancelled their game Sunday with the Bullies because of army regulations banning civilian gatherings of 10,000 persons or more.

The Packers also called off their last scheduled game of the Pacific Coast League season, against the San Diego Bombers a week from Sunday.

GRAPES OF WRATH

IT WAS the famous "wrath of Achilles", according to Homer, that won the Trojan War for the Greeks after they had been fighting Troy for ten years. The anger of that hero was strong enough to arouse him and his followers and allies to a pitch of indignation that made them irresistible.

The wrath of Uncle Sam may likewise suffice for victory after another long stalemate, in a modern war that covers the whole world.

The Japs and their Nazi masters have done us an unintentional service, and thereby done the world a service, by their shameless breach of faith and their savage attack on Pearl Harbor. At one stroke they roused the wrath of a great, peaceful nation to a pitch that can only be assuaged by destruction of Japan.

The job is already well begun with the prompt sinking of Japanese warships. It should proceed until the remainder of that rash nation and its allied European gangsters have cause to rue their crime for a thousand years.

FOLLY OF HOARDING

ON THE whole the American people have responded intelligently to the latest war developments. But there are always selfish and foolish persons in any society. They do stupid things in normal times and it doesn't matter much. In time of emergency they make serious trouble for everybody and so must be curbed, by admonition if possible, by drastic official action if necessary.

There has been a fresh wave of hoarding on the part of many housewives which is more than troublesome to retail grocers and which, unchecked, can cause needlessly high prices and artificial shortages. The president of a large association of wholesale grocers has called his group together to plan control of this situation.

"If every home were to lay in three or four months' supply of food all at once," he says, "it is easy to see what would happen. The farmers, the processors and others handling food would increase their prices beyond the normal trend."

"If it is consumed at normal speed there will be plenty of food and prices will be kept down, with only the normal rises in prices because of labor costs and other expenses caused by war."

Be good sports! Don't gum up the works by panicky and ill-considered acts.

It's fine to be on the alert, but there really isn't a Jap with gleaming teeth behind every door and in every shadow.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles F. Stewart

TO FORGIVE the Germans for permitting Adolf to Nazify them is difficult. In fact, it's impossible right now. The Italians fell for Benito Mussolini somewhat more pardonably, though this isn't quite the right time to admit it.

For the manipulation of the Japanese it isn't easy to fix the responsibility upon any single individual Jap. They're dictated to by a comparatively small class, but by no particular one man, whom it's possible to identify unmistakably.

However, it's interesting to consider how Adolf got to be Fuehrer and how Benito got to be Duce and to wonder how the Jap Samurais, the class referred to, got its start.

The Samurai for antedate both Adolf and Benito. They originated before the dawn of history, evolving themselves out of chaos. According to their own account, As between Adolf and Benito, Benito registered, as a Duce, ahead of Adolf, as a Fuehrer. Indeed, he patronized Adolf, as a freshman, when the latter was just introducing himself.

The last war's end found Italy in awful economic shape. Benito, then quite an ordinary but pretty prominent newspaper editor at Milan, initiated a campaign to improve the situation, creating the national Fascist organization to wage it with. Either because he managed capably, or maybe solely by accident, things began to mend, which made Benito increasingly strong. Perhaps not altogether intentionally, in pushing a generally popular program he drifted pretty speedily into his dictatorial role.

BENITO'S AIMS WERE GOOD Anyway, Benito seems to have aimed originally at a fairly commendable objective.

Adolf was an authoritarian from the jump, as his book, "Mein Kampf," written before he took off, plainly indicated. That his purpose, at that stage of the game, was the socialization of Germany rather than conquest of the world is possible. However, he was a born dictator, not a fluke. It was as a Nazi Fuehrer that he appeared on the stage. At first he wasn't as absolute as he quickly became, but it was no process of evolution, as in Benito's case. He grabbed power as fast as he could.

Italy's declaration of war against the United States isn't regarded in Washington as of much consequence. The impression is that Benito declared it because Adolf told him to and he didn't dare to refuse. It isn't reckoned that he can do anything very formidable, anyway.

The Jap's Samurai, as observed above, manufactured themselves ages ago. They're not a society, like the Nazis and Fascists. They are Samurai by heredity. They swear by the spirit of Bushido, their patron saint or a kind of a god. To die for Japan is their creed, only they don't want to die without killing everybody else in

IN FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS

WASHINGTON—Those who knew General Douglas MacArthur in France are not surprised at the superb job he is doing in defending the Philippines.

During the last war he was one of the Army's bravest and most picturesque higher officers. Once when he wanted some information about the enemy he went over the top himself, took a German dugout by surprise and came back with a prisoner. He got bawled out for it, because no general is supposed to expose himself to fire. But his men worshipped him.

As Chief of staff in Washington during the Hoover Administration, MacArthur was an energetic go-getter for anything the army needed, and a good organizer. In the Philippines this organizing ability has been one of his greatest assets, for he has had the task not only of building up a Philippine army, but getting cooperation with the U. S. Army, the Air Corps and the Marines.

Incidentally, MacArthur is following in the footsteps of a soldier father, General Arthur MacArthur, who became famous for cleaning up the Philippines after the Spanish-American war.

AMERICA FIRST

One place where the surprise Japanese assault really created consternation was in inner America First circles.

The isolationist generalissimos were as completely sunk as the ships bombed to the bottom of Pearl Harbor.

Just a week previous, America First leaders had embarked on a new line of operations—open political activity—and had even gone so far as to spend a large sum of money for the campaign of an isolationist candidate in the Seventh Massachusetts District.

Their No. 1 limelight attraction, ex-hero Lindbergh, was all set to take the stump in this fight. Also, he was quietly weighing whether to toss his hat into the 1942 congressional elections arena.

But the Japanese attack blasted all these ambitious schemes to smithereens—including the America First Committee itself—though not until after a sharp dispute among the inner leaders.

They split over the future of the organization. One group, led by General Robert Wood, favored immediate dissolution and full support of President Roosevelt in the prosecution of the war. Another group wanted to hold off for a while to see what developed.

POLITICS FIRST

Among those who wanted to wait were Edwin S. Webster, secretary of the New York Chapter, and leaders of the Bronx Chapter, all bitter Roosevelt haters. Webster felt so hotly over dissolution of the Committee that he talked of rushing out to Chicago to try to persuade Wood to change his mind.

He contended the America First organization should be kept intact to take advantage of any opportunities for continued political warring on the President; and to oppose any presidential candidate who advocated Roosevelt policies in 1944.

DIET AND HEALTH

Errors in Chronometry of Life Injure Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Perfect health is a very difficult thing to define, probably largely because it doesn't exist. It is a sort of abstraction made up of different parts of different individuals' ideals in some respect.

You take the ideal of one man's head of hair, another man's perfect teeth, another man's unusual eyesight, this fellow's perfect digestion, that man's splendid muscular build and posture and the other fellow's feet and the composite is what you call a normal person in perfect health. But he isn't normal at all. You find him in probably one in five million people and his perfect health is simply an abstraction or a theoretical ideal.

No disease or illness is the lot of man far more than perfect health.

All the elements that go to make up even a reasonably healthy human organism are very complex. One of these elements that we are inclined to forget is chronometry, or the normal passing of time, the normal development of various functions at the proper time. This chronometry is quite as important an element in health as chemistry, body mechanics, bacteria or the elements of environment.

Schedule of Development Our life, in other words, is unfolded according to a time schedule of development. A little baby is not supposed to have any teeth. When it does get its first teeth, they are small and fragile. But suppose it was born with adult teeth and could chew and masticate all kinds of food. This ability would be far ahead of its digestive powers and an adult mouth and adult tastes in food would simply overwhelm the stomach and intestines.

Just so the development of the brain can go too fast. A too precocious child is regarded by everybody except its parents with a certain amount of distaste. Some people you know are going through life on a time schedule that is all keyed up. They rush through life getting things done at a rate which makes us dizzy and perhaps at the end appear to be old and broken before their time. Others err in the opposite direction and are always behind and never seem to catch up, either with their work or with life. This seems to break men down quite as much as being in too much of a hurry.

Take Your Time

Errors in the chronometry of life may be in the whole or in one part. As in the instances I have just mentioned, the whole man and all his organs may be going too fast or too slow. But sometimes one part of the body is ahead of the others—the muscles are too strong for the personality and the dissonance is just as evident as that in listening to an orchestra when the first violin is ahead of the piano.

Then we all know those who in youth have been keyed to be ahead of all their companions—they belong in higher grades in school than others of their age. Often, in fact usually, I think as time goes on they fall behind so that at the age of fifty they are far behind their former companions in the affairs of life.

Happy is the man who finds his body and his mind developing naturally through the cycles of the age changes, and who meets childhood, youth, manhood, middle age and old age on their own terms.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS E. B. T.:—"Having a diagnosis of neurasthenia, is it possible for the gastro-intestinal tract to be involved, giving rise to spastic constipation, colitis, gas and distention, and could there be any connection between any of the conditions and low blood pressure?"

Answer: Yes. Gastro-intestinal symptoms such as you describe are the most common symptoms of neurasthenia. Low blood pressure also usually goes with them.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

PUBLICITY men took Susan in hand. Moving picture cameramen arrived. Cameras were set up. Susan was placed upon a three-legged stool, with a milkpail. A man who was acting as director walked here and there, eyeing her from every angle. And Susan, uneasy, eyed Ella from a number of angles. She still didn't like the look in Ella's eye, although Ella was calmly chewing her cud as though nothing at all was happening around her.

"All right!" said the director. "Camera! Action! Shoot!" He turned to Susan. "Okay, Miss Farmer; start milking." Susan did. And Ella kindly gave the look in her eye didn't mean a thing, after all. Then when it was all over, several people rushed up to Susan to ask for her autograph. They had miniature milkpails, thoughtfully presented to them by the Dainty Diana Dairies, with an eye to publicity, of course—and they wished Susan to write her name upon their sides. Susan did so. It was all rather like a fantastic dream, she thought. But she went on with it.

"Well!" she said finally. "That's that!"

"Shall we have lunch some place now?" Roy asked.

"Yes, let's do," said Susan. "We could have it right here at the dairy, if you like," Roy suggested. "Dainty Diana Dairies keeps a sort of dairy restaurant open to accommodate people who like milk products."

"How interesting!" said Susan. "Let's do eat here."

"We can have eggs also, any style," Roy said, as they went through a door that opened upon a small and immaculate dining room. "All sorts of things—but all from the farm."

"I love it!" said Susan, looking around. "Maybe I'll open a place like this in the front yard of the Farmer plantation."

"It might be a good idea," said Roy. "Only those ancestors of yours—the proud and haughty ones—might object to such commercialism."

"Let them!" said Susan.

They found chairs and sat down. And when their lunch had been placed before them, Roy decided that now was as good a time as any to bring up a matter that had been troubling him for some little while.

"Susan," he said. "About that—that—scene in my office the other afternoon. You know, when I kissed you."

"Yes?" said Susan. "What about it?"

"I can't forget it, even though you told me to."

Susan looked at him across her glass of cold, creamy milk.

"I don't think there's anything more to be said about the matter," she replied. "You had a sudden impulse to kiss me—you did kiss me—and there the matter ends."

"But it doesn't end there," Roy contradicted. "I don't want you thinking of me as a promiscuous sort of fellow who goes around kissing girls on impulse. I'm not. The very fact that I can't forget the incident proves that it was something more than just a—a kiss."

"Please, Roy—let's not discuss it."

"I've got to," said Roy. He leaned forward, his eyes warm with admiration. "Believe it or not, Susan Farmer, I'm for you, 100 per cent."

"Naturally!" said Susan. "At the moment I'm something of an asset to the firm for which you work. If you weren't for me 100 per cent, you wouldn't be loyal to Mr. Jones."

"Oh, darn Mr. Jones!" Roy said. "The firm has nothing to do with my feelings for you. They're purely personal."

"Then you should do something about it," said Susan.

"That's what I'm trying to do," said Roy. "I mean, I'm trying to tell you that I'm—well, on the verge of falling in love with you."

He went right on, when Susan tried to interrupt. "For years I've had a sort of ideal—and don't laugh, Susan!—a picture in my mind and heart of the girl I could really love. And you're that girl, Susan. I knew it the moment I saw your picture."

"You mean that picture I sent in with my letter?" said Susan, amazed.

"Yes. Most folk around the office saw it as a girl who would come up to the specifications of the contest, but I saw it as the picture of the girl who lived up to the specifications in my heart."

"But, Roy, this—this—is so silly," said Susan. "You've known me such a short time, and now you're talking of love, and ideals. It just doesn't make sense."

"To me it does," Roy insisted. "I may be old-fashioned and all that, in some ways—but I'm glad of it! I believe a man can fall in love at once—that it will come to him all of a sudden that a certain girl is the girl; that he doesn't have to know her for weeks, months or—even days to know. He just—well—knows."

"Besides," said Susan, really troubled, "there's Irene Carter. She let me know quite plainly that you were her property. She gave me to understand that you two were to be married some day."

"I know—I know," Roy was miserable. "But it was just one of those things; I mean, we were thrown together in the office, and simply drifted into talking of marriage. Honest to gosh, Susan, I can't, to save me, remember ever coming right out and proposing to Irene."

Susan was thoughtful. She was remembering Fred Mosher and herself. She and Fred had been like that, thrown together and drifting into the habit of discussing marriage. Only Fred HAD proposed many, many times. And all at once she felt a great sympathy for Roy Leonard. Looking at him across the small table, she thought how strange it was that Roy, here in New York, should be interested in farms, things which she was interested in, while Fred, down in small town, was not interested in farming, but often talked of the time when he could live in a city and really get into the midst of real living.

"I know," Roy was now saying, "that there's a man down in your home town, a man who's probably waiting for you to come back and marry him—but even so, that doesn't keep me from admiring you. Maybe you and that man, like Irene and I, sort of—took each other for granted, and didn't bother to look around a bit."

"Maybe," said Susan. She took a deep breath. "I like you, Roy," she said, "and I wasn't angry about the kiss. But I don't want Irene Carter and others to think I am the sort of girl Irene hinted at until she gets the other girl's man. I'm not like that at all, and—"

"Of course you're not!" said Roy. "And anyone who says you are is crazy—not excepting Irene herself."

D.A.R. Conducts Holiday Session At Moffitt Home

Donations Made To Various Funds By Chapter

Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. James P. Moffitt, East Franklin Street, for its annual Christmas session. The Moffitt home was gay in its decorations of Christmas holly and evergreens interspersed with lighted candles.

The business meeting was marked by generous donations to worthy causes, $5 going from the chapter to the Circleville Benevolent Association and $10 to the Red Cross, following the report of Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker concerning the quota of $8,500 assigned to Pickaway County. A complete report on donations to the Ellis Island project was presented by Mrs. William Mack, chairman.

Mrs. Moffitt, chapter regent, conducted the business session which found 32 members responding to roll call and three guests present. Group singing of one verse of the "Star-Spangled Banner" preceded the ritualistic service conducted by the regent, assisted by Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, chaplain. Mrs. Clark K. Hunsicker, secretary, reported the October and November meetings, and read the minutes of the Board of Management meeting and reported the recommendations. Mrs. Paul Johnson read the treasurer's report in the absence of Mrs. George Gearhart.

Mrs. Christian Schwarz, Red Cross chairman, reported all work completed and that a new supply would be in the first of the year.

A fine paper compiled by Miss Elsie Jewell, was read in her absence by Mrs. Anderson. "Christmas in the Past" was the subject discussed.

The musical program included two piano selections, "Venetian Baccarat" and "Chimes," by Mrs. Martin Grumley; two vocal solos, "Oh, Holy Night" and "Impati-ence," by Mrs. Harold Deffenbaugh; and group singing of Christmas carols including "O Come, All Ye Faithful," "Silent Night" and "The First Noel."

Refreshments were served at the close of the program by Mrs. Moffitt, Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, Mrs. B. B. Bates, Miss Clara Littleton, Mrs. C. C. Watts and Mrs. William Mack, hostesses for the occasion.

Lucan Elm Grange

One hundred and twenty-five grangers enjoyed the Christmas dinner party of Lucan Elm Grange Tuesday at Pickaway School. Evergreens decorated the tables where dinner was served, place cards favoring being candle holders made by Mrs. Lee Smith.

Ottis Leint conducted the ritualistic service and business meeting during which the charter was draped for the state master.

It was announced that Mrs. Leint would be installing officer for the formal services at the next meeting, January 6.

The program was arranged in two parts, the juvenile grangers opening with a vocal duet by Hewitt Harnout and Bobby Wilson; piano; solo, Elene Martin piano solo; Marilyn Miller vocal trio; Helen Riffel, Elene Martin and Ann Bradley; reading, "Not Yet," Lee Smith; story, "The Night Before Christmas," Elene Martin and the primary children.

The second part of the program included carol singing by a quartet comprised of Mrs. William Hegele, Mrs. Charles Dresbach, Clarence Maxson and Wells Wilson, and the story of the origin of the Christmas tree by Carl Burger.

Gifts from the beautifully decorated Christmas tree were distributed during the informal social hour by Santa Claus.

Child Conservation League

"America Celebrates Christmas" was the subject of a splendid paper read by Mrs. Robert T. Kelsey at the Christmas luncheon meeting of the Child Conservation League, Tuesday, at the Pickaway Arms. In it she said, "Christmas brings back memories of our own childhood, the same smell of cedar, the same Christmas stockings, also the tree, and the times we have been pulled out of the house to go to grandmother's for dinner." Its preparation, according to Mrs. Kelsey, is a repetition of tradition which becomes a ritual for us and we look forward to it year after year.

Reviewing all the pleasant traditional arrangements associated with the day in the past, Mrs. Kelsey brought her subject to date with mention of haunting memories in store for children, when radio programs this year are ending with war news and a live war, advice concerning the purchase of defense bonds and pleas for help for unfortunate victims in war torn lands; that while they are on the streets, they will hear sirens sounding and see convoys of army trucks passing through.

She concluded with the thought that our children should be shown the light of faith so that they would remember when all the world was frantic, someone remained calm and unafraid; no matter how black the night, there will never be enough darkness to put out the light of one small candle.

Fifteen members were present for the delightful luncheon served at 1 p. m. Mrs. Clark Will and Mrs. Bishop Given being hostesses for the day.

Mrs. Howard Newell Stevenson conducted the meeting and Mrs. Virgil M. Crenk took care of the business routine. Mrs. Howard White and Mrs. Robert Heiges were voted to membership.

A large table of beautifully wrapped Christmas gifts was placed near the tree and gifts distributed to the 61 members and several guests.

Information Concerning Draft Calls, Quotas To Be Withheld

CENSORSHIP ON VITAL DATA PUT INTO OPERATION

Pickaway County Office Given Copy Of Note To State Chief

MAIL MAY BE OPENED

Postmaster Has Received No Definite Orders Covering Action

Selective Service officials announced Wednesday that information regarding future draft calls and quotas would not be made public.

The announcement followed an order handed down by the War Department in connection with its program of strict censorship on a wartime basis, and came to the local board as a copy of a telegram received at State Selective Service headquarters. It read:

"To all State Directors the War Department has ruled that information concerning quotas and calls is restricted. In conformity with such a policy, no information will be given out by agencies of the Selective Service System with respect to quotas and calls."

Local officials received no details on how extensive the order would be carried out in regard to the publishing of names of men and boys called into service, but it was generally understood that information concerning the dates and quotas of future calls would be withheld.

Last figures given out by the local draft board showed a total registration of 2,953 men. Of that total 153 had been placed in Class 1-A pending physical examination and 22 had been placed definitely in 1-A. Twenty-five had received occupational deferment.

Last contingent to leave the county, and first to leave since the outbreak of the war, included ten men on December 10.

Mail To Be Watched

Censorship of foreign mail, both incoming and outgoing, may be invoked at the local postoffice, following an announcement from Postmaster General Walker that such a program was now under way. No details of the mail censorship will be made public at present, the Postmaster General said.

Postmaster Hulse Hays reported Wednesday that he had received no notice from the government concerning such a censorship, but he added that such an announcement may come through in the next couple of days.

Other powers of censorship, voted by Congress Tuesday, may be felt by Circleville folk, the program being designed to prevent all information of value from reaching the enemy.

FSA Will Make Loans For Machinery Repair

The Farm Security Administration will lend money to pay for the repair and overhauling of farm machinery belonging to families who are now borrowers of the Farm Security Administration or who can meet the requirements for such loans, Cornell E. Copeland, Pickaway County supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, announced Wednesday.

"These loans are to insure that production of foodstuffs by families cooperating with the Farm Security Administration will not be curtailed next year because of badly worn or broken-down farm machinery," Mr. Copeland said. "The Food for Freedom program must not fail, because it is just as essential to the defense of America as is the industrial program of our factories. Farmers must bear in mind, too, that with farm prices higher than they have been in years, they must make the most of their opportunity to produce in abundance."

"Machinery is going to be scarcer as this war goes on, and without doubt the prices of farm implements will get steadily higher. The cost of parts will be more, too. So it will pay every farmer to check over his machinery now, and make the necessary repairs. Machinery should be put in first-class working order, even if it might 'last out' another season. Losing the services of an implement during the busy season of cultivating or harvesting may prove costly."

Several Loans Made
So far this year, several loans for farm machinery repairs in Pickaway County have been made by the FSA. The Pickaway County U. S. D. A. Defense Board is now conducting a county-wide Farm Machinery Repair campaign urging farmers to check their repair requirements for the coming year.

"Making machinery repair loans is one way in which the Farm Security Administration can directly assist the U.S.D.A. Farm Defense program," Mr. Copeland said. "The loans may be repaid over a two-year period, and bear interest at five percent."

Mr. Copeland said that eligible borrowers also will be loaned money for the purchase of new machinery, if necessary, although joint purchase and use of new equipment by several families is being urged to meet anticipated shortages and probable price increases in new machinery next spring.

"Through group buying and use of equipment, and early repair and overhauling of old equipment, available farm machinery may be sufficient to go around and enable farmers to meet increased production goals," Mrs. Copeland said.

"STRICTEST CONFIDENCE"
Members of the Senate Naval Affairs committee know the whole story of what happened at Pearl Harbor, including the reasons why U. S. forces were caught napping. They were given a detailed account of the disaster by their chairman, Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, after he and Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the House

Naval Affairs committee, were given a confidential fill-in by Admiral Harold R. Stark, Chief of Naval Operations.

Walsh gave his colleagues the information in "strictest confidence," and on condition they wouldn't breathe a word to anyone, even their wives. Vinson, however, was less trusting. The Georgian flatly refused to tell his committee what he had learned from Stark, insisting it was up to the President to make known the facts at the proper time.

The President hit the ceiling when he heard about Stark's off the record disclosures. Calling Stark on the carpet, he bluntly demanded why the Admiral had not consulted him before talking to Walsh and Vinson. Stark replied that he thought he was acting with White House approval and that as all members of Congress were clamoring for information about the Pearl Harbor disaster, he thought responsible leaders such as chairmen of the Naval committees were entitled to know.

The President said he realized this, but it was too early to make a report. He also tartly reminded the Navy chief of the number of news leaks on the Hill.

Stark suddenly called off his scheduled appearance before Vinson's committee.

BLACKOUT TIP: If your windows are equipped with Venetian blinds, adjust them at night so that the slats turn upward on the inside. However, don't depend upon this alone for total blackout precautions. Special blackout curtains or drapes are safer.

The outbreak of the war obscured the incident, but the House ate crow in a big way on its action last summer barring David Lasser, former head of the Workers Alliance, from government employment. After a careful investigation, the Appropriations Committee completely exonerated Lasser of any Communist affiliations. Representatives John Taber, N. Y., J. W. Ditter, Pa., and Everett Dirksen, Ill., who made the original accusation ducked the committee session when Lasser was cleared.
